

GreenEnergyLaw.org

Rob Wolf is a licensed engineer and licensed attorney with an MBA in finance and over 20-years of business experience as a radio station group owner-operator in Vermont and New Hampshire. He is currently “Of Counsel” at Cleantech Law Partners, a national a boutique law firm that caters to the unique legal needs of renewable energy and cleantech companies; and CFO/Chief Counsel for several solar “start-ups.”

Rob’s professional focus and passion are renewable energy projects, with a particular focus on commercial and municipal solar “PV” development.

Rob is admitted as an attorney in all Massachusetts and New Hampshire state and federal courts, and member of the Massachusetts and New Hampshire Bars, the Boston Bar, the Energy Bar and the American Bar Association Law Practice Management Section in addition to the Turnaround Management Association and New England Business Brokers Association. He also holds an FCC First-Class Engineer Certification and Wind Energy Technical Certificate from the University of California/ Davis and has successfully completed the TMA Certified Turnaround Professional examinations.

Prior to becoming an attorney, Rob Wolf dedicated over twenty years in broadcasting with career highlights that include affiliations with NIKE in developing media coverage of major marathon running events, culminating in owning and operating radio stations in northern New England. Rob earned his BS in Communications at Boston University, his JD law degree cum laude from Pierce Law and graduate business degree with honors at the University of New Hampshire Whittemore School for Business and the Sawyer School at Suffolk University in Boston where he earned his MBA in Finance. On weekends, you’ll find him either at his farm in Vermont, out sailing off Marblehead, or working at his office in Boston.

Robert J. Wolf, Esq. JD/MBA
GreenEnergyLaw.org
8 Faneuil Hall
3rd Floor
Boston, MA 02109
O: 617-846-3490

